

DR MICHAL GORSKI

BIOGRAPHY

Dr Michal Gorski is one of the founders and CEO of Genome, a healthcare technology company that aims to bring positively disruptive change to revolutionise patient care and optimise operational efficiency. With a wealth of real-world experience, he seeks to bring transformational systems to an industry that needs innovative solutions to complex problems.

He gained his qualification as a medical doctor in 2005 and has worked as an emergency medicine physician in the NHS since 2009. Michal continues to practise emergency medicine, enjoying the direct patient contact that his clinical work provides, maintaining his knowledge and skills while having the satisfaction of helping patients in their time of need.

His time spent working in emergency medicine has given him a wide breadth of clinical and managerial experience. This has provided a depth of understanding of the issues facing healthcare institutions today that is rarely found in the entrepreneurial sphere.

When not working in emergency medicine or with Genome, Michal enjoys spending quality time with his family and new-born son, who has captured the hearts of the Genome team during his appearances in Zoom meetings!
